End of Semester Report Card Comments

ROCKY VIEW SCHOOLS

Meaningful

Comments should be meaningful to parents/guardians and learners. Next year's teacher is a secondary audience.

Curriculum-Based

Comments should describe the learner's progress in relation to curricular outcomes overall including observations, conversations and products. Comments speaking to specific outcomes should be included in RTR updates throughout the year.

Personalized

The learner's name should be evident in the comment and clearly be about that student (parents/guardians and learners quickly recognize when this isn't the case). If you use AI to support you, please be sure to personalize the comment before publishing.

Reflective

Include a strength, an area for improvement and what the learner can do to improve. Use honest and direct language. Comments indicating an area of challenge may be appropriate on the final report card, however it shouldn't be the first time that parents are aware of this area of challenge. Personal communication with parents through the year is both expected and necessary to convey information that identifies significant areas of challenge.

Concise

Academic/subject area comments should be no more than 4 – 5 sentences in total, in bullet points or full sentence/paragraph style.

Are not...

- A place to make program/course stream recommendations.
- A list of completed tasks or assignments.
- Raw scores from standardized assessment results (PAT, Alberta Education required assessments, EICS, RVS writing assessment).
- A reference to a learner's standing "At", "Above" or "Below" grade level. These references are vague and overgeneralized, and can negatively impact a student's perception of themselves as a learner.
